

Good morning and welcome to services! We are so glad you are here. We had such a great evening of fellowship at the chili cookoff last Sunday. Thanks to all the young people who worked on making it great, and a special thanks to the parents and other adults who worked in the kitchen and helped with decorating. We have the best group of young people and parents at Crockett Road . We want to offer a special thanks to our congregation for their encouragement and support of the youth program. What a blessing to be a part of such a generous church family. We are gearing up for Lads to Leaders. The puppet team will be meeting at 4:00 for practice, so if you are on the convention puppet team, please do your best to be here. Hope everyone has a great week! DOUG

“The Other One”

I think most of us credit ourselves with being longsuffering, forgiving and patient (even if we don't deserve such credit). There is no getting around the fact that in this life, we are going to get on each other's nerves; we are going to irritate one another; we are going to face contention, and sometimes outright offense. It is at these times that we all try to exercise patience, with varying degrees of success. If we somehow manage to not blow our tops and yell and scream, we credit ourselves with righteousness. If we can avoid plotting the downfall and ultimate demise of the offending party, we pat ourselves on the back and say we “turned the other cheek”, don't we? But is that enough? Is it enough to merely refrain from violent outburst and mean-spirited thoughts and behavior? Jesus had a few words to say about this subject: “You have heard that it was said, ‘An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.’ But I say to you, Do not resist an evildoer. But if anyone strikes you on the right cheek, turn the other also; and if anyone wants to sue you and take your coat, give your cloak as well; and if anyone forces you to go one mile, go also the second mile” (Mt. 5:38-42). Do we return a harsh word with a kind one? Do we seek to help those who have hurt us? It seems counter-intuitive, doesn't it? It goes against our selfish nature to put ourselves in harm's way; especially after we have just experienced a hurt. But there is a reason we are commanded to do this, and we trust the divine wisdom behind this practice of returning evil with good:”

”(Romans 12:20-21) SELECTED

We do go back on Day-
Light Savings Time this
Saturday night.

From Dan's desk:

Don't forget to move your clock forward one hour this coming Saturday night as we go back on Daylight Savings Time once again. You will be late for Bible class if you do not. If you fail to do so, you will miss worship all together. More light at the end of the day will really be appreciated. We thank each of you who are members who always involve yourselves in the work of the Lord and are always here when we are called to worship together. Thanks to those who came last Sunday evening for the chili supper also. It was a lot of fun and we appreciate all who helped and donated to they youth fund. Some $2,666.00 was raised Thanks also to those who came for Monday Night For The Master last Monday night. We all enjoyed the time we ate and worked together. Thanks to Dwight and Shelly for always coordinating this effort. We thank the Lord for the warmer weather after that frigid week of below record temperatures. Thanks for coming today and hope to see all of you tonight at 6 P.M.

“The Might Of Our Creator”

I'm awed by the might of a Creator who can fashion this innumerable array of heavenly wonders — a universe that only grows richer and deeper the more closely we examine it. If you've seen some of the photographs taken by the Hubble orbiting telescope, which has enabled scientists to look further into space than any earthbound telescope ever has, you know that God's physical realm teems with incredible sights beyond our ken. And the greater our ability to examine God's handiwork grows, the greater still the scope of His imagination and majesty is shown to be. Every aspect of the Christian's life shares this characteristic. Like the night sky, the spiritual blessings in Christ reveal more and greater wonders the more closely we experience them, and the more we come to know about our God and Savior, the more amazed we are. Think about how great His grace seemed the day you were baptized into Christ, and you stepped forth from the water knowing all of your sins had been washed away by the blood of Jesus. Now think how much more reason you have to rejoice in Him today — how much more mature an appreciation you now have of the kindness and mercy He's shown you! Paul wrote to the Christians at Philippi, “And this I pray, that your love may abound still more and more in knowledge and all discernment, that you may approve the things that are excellent” (Philippians 1:9-10) DAN
